

I think that ownership of multiple broadcast media, radio and Tv stations and newspapers, results in the media being controlled by too few owners. Too much of the media is already owned by large coporations with vested interests that adversely affect the objectivity of their reports. A healthy media requires ownership by smaller companies that will give us more diverse points of view.